Kia ora Dame Elysabeth

We are delighted to let you know that your article has now been published in Nursing Praxis in Aotearoa New Zealand on our open access platform <http://praxis.scholasticahq.com/>. Here you will be able to see all articles published to date and freely download them (and soon we hope to have all articles ever published in Praxis).

The direct link to your article is: <https://praxis.scholasticahq.com/article/73355-younger-women-s-experiences-of-stroke-a-qualitative-study>.

If you haven't already heard, Nursing Praxis is now being indexed on Scopus and all articles have a doi deposited with CrossRef. Metrics can be collected from the online platform. (Note: Metrics of authors are improved using the link rather than sending pdfs.)

If you provided an ORCID number you will now have received notification that this publication has been added to your record. If you do not have an ORCID number, we suggest you register <https://info.orcid.org/what-is-orcid/>.

You may also deposit the article with your institution's library.

Please feel free publicise widely using the link, such as Twitter platforms @NursingPraxis and ResearchGate.

Thank you very much for submitting your article to our Journal.

We hope we will work again with you in the future.

Ngā mihi / Kind regards
